

Key points from Welcome Week FLP Presentation

Alexis McMillen

For more info on Welcome Week activities visit welcomeweek.wvu.edu. To get the most updated schedule, you should visit the Events tab on that page.

For the Adventure/Service activities for new students, you can find information on the New Mountaineers tab, including which day they should sign-up (according to where they will live). The CSL's phone and email is listed if there are questions.

Remember that if you'd like to see the landing pages for Sunday 8/13 (downtown and commuters) or Tuesday 8/15 (Evansdale), you'll need to be part of the user group we set up in iServe. You can click this link to join the group and see either page. Please do so if you are in a position to help field questions, OR if you'd like to see the offerings and are considering volunteering to help out!

Speaking of helping out—here is how you can get involved!! This page isn't publicly posted yet, and is still in draft format at the moment, but you all get a special sneak peek. The Welcome Week 2017 Volunteers page has a few now, but will eventually list all of the opportunities for volunteering--and we need you! Take a chance on leading a service or adventure group... no experience is needed for most placements, or join in the fun and help out with Food or Fall Fest. It's really wonderful we can get involved welcoming students back to campus and to the Mountaineer Family.
